

NOTES OF LOCAL INTEREST

PERSONAL Paragraphs Pertaining to Prominent Photoplay Productions

Here's a tip. Should you desire a pass, it will be good for the Stanley Theatre, a few years from now, when you enter the Stanley Cinema. At least, in what Stanley V. Mastbaum gave me fond mother movie fan.

It does seem strange that the theaters advertising the "coolest theater in town" are the ones that hand their customers fans as they enter.

There is a shoe-shining outfit in charge at an attendant at the family. The shiner hopes to become a movie magnate some day, and so he is starting from the bottom.

The Cohan and Harris Theater, in New York, employs Chinese girl ushers. This might solve the problem of novelty attractions for some theaters in this city.

It is time some one came forward with a year movie review similar to the Pollies.

"Parentage" is a possible attraction at the Stanley.

If movie fans desire to see their charms solo in the flesh, all that is required is to stand on Broadway at Forty-third street, New York, about 4 o'clock any afternoon.

Those little girls, Jane and Katherine Lee, who appeared in "A Daughter of the Gods," are featured in "Two Little Imps" at the Park on Wednesday.

A billboard in front of the Jefferson calls attention to the showing of "Caste" today, with Peggy Hyland and Sir John Hare. It is the work of an English studio.

A return of Mary Pickford in "The Little American" is announced for the Leader.

Hall Caine's latest movie effort is on view at the Criterion in New York, but local movie fans can see his production of "The Deemster" at the Apollo tomorrow.

Leon Errol, the comic inebriate, should be good in a few reels.

A daily change of program is at present in vogue at the Fifty-sixth Street Theatre. Alice Joyce and Harry Morey are to appear there tomorrow.

"Joan the Woman" is the biggest attraction yet offered patrons of the neighborhood theatres. In it appears Geraldine Farrar, who at present is working upon a production out in California that will be called "The Woman God Forgot."

Wallace Reid is the main star in "Big Timber" at the Sherwood. This is another book production.

George Beban is in California making arrangements for his future releases. The Toga will show one of his subjects on Friday.

Miss A. Lorraine Hunnell, of the Stanley company, will visit New York city to inspect the telephone systems in use in the larger theatrical offices.

Vivian Martin is the featured player on Saturday at the Frankford. She is Mrs. William Jefferson, relative of the late Joseph Jefferson, of "Rip Van Winkle" fame.

The final episode of "The Neglected Wife" will be shown on Wednesday at the Overbrook.

"The Unwritten Law" is to be on view at the Fairmount on Friday. Beatriz Michelena is the leading player.

"On Trial" is going to be the big feature of the Bluebird next week.

See if you can discover what the censors did to the play at the Liberty on Saturday.

Keystone comedies are the Wednesday feature at the Eureka.

"Iris," the newest movie made from a play, will be Thursday's feature at the Savoy.

Not content with managing a theatre, Ben Shindler aspires to be a press agent as well. The following is his "copy" in full:

"For today the Ridge Avenue Theatre offers Virginia Pearson in "Wrath of Love." Virginia has the rare distinction of having been saluted by Marshal Joffre on his recent visit to America. She also has an army of cats and dogs named for her by thousands of admiring fans. This theatre also offers, beginning today, the new series of Stingaree, featuring "True Boardman," the famous gateman burglar. These stories are complete in each series."

Tuesday's feature at the Rialto is Mary Pickford in "The Little American." "The Little American" is said to be the greatest patriotic message ever seen on the motion-picture screen. It is directed under the personal direction of that master of screen craft, Cecil B. DeMille. Popularly known as "America's Sweetheart," Miss Pickford presents a particularly fitting character in the title role of this new Artcraft picture.

Bryant Washburn, of the famous "Skinner" pictures, Virginia Pearson and Jessie Barricane will be the trio of stars who will furnish the entertainment at the Great Northern Theatre this week. They will be seen in the new vehicles which have never before been presented in this section of the city.

Viola Dana, whose popularity on the screen increases with each new picture in which she appears, Gladys Brockwell, who has won a great reputation for strong screen portrayals, and Mary Anderson will be the trio of stars who will be seen at the Regent Theatre this week in a wide diversity of pictures, in each of which these delightful character portrayers will be in the ranks of the best work of their respective careers.

The offering that the management of the Imperial make this week are of infinite variety and should interest young and old. Thelma Salter and a very beautiful girl will appear today in "Slumberland," and this pretty Triangle star will be seen in a delightful role in this charming fairy tale of Ireland.

The feature for Wednesday and Thursday at the Belmont will be Wallace Reid and Kathryn Williams, in "Big Timber," a picturization by Gardner Hunting of Bernhard Sinclair's famous story.

"Within the Law," the legitimate stage success will be shown in picture form at the Locust Theatre today. Tuesday and Wednesday. The silent dramatization of Maynard Bell's story will meet with popular favor wherever it is played.
